In an effort to help families that choose to pay out-of-pocket for homeschooling classes and services, The Write Journey, LLC has decided to offer our products at a reduced rate for those paying in this manner. While our prices will remain the same for our charter school students, the added expense covers the cost of the additional administrative tasks required to maintain the vendor status. The reduced rates for private-pay individuals may be used by students enrolled in charter schools, but only if the family chooses to pay for the goods or services out-of-pocket. Discounts, including the price and sibling discounts, only apply to payments out-of-pocket. The prices for tutoring are the same whether using charter funds or private pay funds.
